ABSTRACT

This bibliography is the final volume of a project begun in 1975, an update of the Center for Applied Linguistics' publication, "A Bibliography of American Doctoral Dissertations in Linguistics: 1900-1964," complied by Phillip R. Rutherford. In this update, an attempt was made to also cover the linguistics-related fields such as anthropology, education, languages and literature, psychology, sociology and speech. Most of the dissertations cited here were completed between 1968 and 1974, but some completed in 1965-1967 have also been included. The 2,271 entries in the volume are given in alphabetical order by the author's name; each entry gives, in addition to title and author, the name of the university and the year of completion. A subject index is also provided, which is, for the most part, language-specific, with a minimum of cross-referencing. For less frequently cited languages, many topics are grouped under such general categories as morphology, phonology, semantics and syntax. (Author/RM)

PREFACE

This bibliography is the final volume of a project that was initiated by the ERIC Clearinghouse on Languages and Linguistics at the Center for Applied Linguistics in 1975. At that time, an update was begun of the Center's Publication, A Bibliography of American Doctoral Dissertations in Linguistics: 1900-1964, compiled by Phillip R. Rutherford. In compiling the new bibliography, an attempt was made to also cover the linguistics-related fields such as anthropology, education, languages and literature, psychology, sociology, and speech.

It soon became obvious that the number of relevant titles would be well into the thousands and that the project would require far more time than originally planned. The decision was made to publish the update in two volumes--1965-1967 and 1968-1974--and to include dissertations relating to foreign language education in an independent bibliography. The 1965-67 volume and the foreign language education compilation appeared as Numbers 28 and 36, respectively, in the CAL·ERIC/CLL Series on Languages and Linguistics. (See appended Series list.)

The growing concern over bilingual/bicultural education and the teaching of English as a second language led to a further breakdown of the 1968-74 volume and produced A Bibliography of American Doctoral Dissertations in Bilingual Education and English as a Second Language: 1968-1974, Number 44 in the CAL·ERIC/CLL Series.

Major sources for the entire project were Dissertation Abstracts International, Index to American Doctoral Dissertations, and Spanish-Surnamed Populations of the United States: A Catalog of Dissertations. Most of the entries were checked against two sources to verify the information. Because of the system used in one source, however, a number of entries contain the incorrect year; in these cases, the degree was almost invariably granted one year earlier. Due to this inconsistency, the present volume includes several dissertations that were completed in 1967. We have also included some works published in 1965 and 1966 that came to our attention after the earlier volume was already in print.

In the interest of economy, the index is, for the most part, language-specific, with only a minimum of cross-referencing. Thus, a general study of negation appears under the topic "Negation," while a study of negation in French is indexed only under the topic "French: negation." In the case of the less frequently cited languages, many topics are grouped under such general categories as morphology, phonology, semantics, and syntax. Languages with only three or four entries are not divided into subtopics.

The compilers would like to express their warmest thanks to the following persons who donated their time and expertise to preparing the index: Ceil Kovac, Dora Johnson, Allene Grognet, William Gage, Paul Stern, Walter Stolz, and Ross Macdonald.

CAL•ERIC/CLL SERIES ON LANGUAGES AND LINGUISTICS

ERIC (Educational Resources Information Center) is a nationwide network of information centers, each responsible for a given educational level or field of study. ERIC is supported by the National Institute of Education of the U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. The basic objective of ERIC is to make current developments in educational research, instruction, and personnel preparation more readily accessible to educators and members of related professions.

The ERIC Clearinghouse on Languages and Linguistics (ERIC/CLL), one of the specialized clearinghouses in the ERIC system, is operated by the Center for Applied Linguistics. ERIC/CLL is specifically responsible for the collection and dissemination of information in the general area of research and application in languages, linguistics, and language teaching and learning.

In addition to processing information, ERIC/CLL is also involved in information synthesis and analysis. The Clearinghouse commissions recognized authorities in languages and linguistics to write analyses of the current issues in their areas of specialty. The resultant documents, intended for use by educators and researchers, are published under the title CAL•ERIC/CLL Series on Languages and Linguistics. The series includes practical guides for classroom teachers, extensive state-of-the-art papers, and selected bibliographies.

The material in this publication was prepared pursuant to a contract with the National Institute of Education, U.S. Department of Health, Education, and Welfare. Contractors undertaking such projects under Government sponsorship are encouraged to express freely their judgment in professional and technical matters. Prior to publication, the manuscript was submitted to the Linguistic Society of America for critical review and determination of professional competence. This publication has met such standards. Points of view or opinions, however, do not necessarily represent the official view or opinions of either the Linguistic Society of America or the National Institute of Education.

This publication will be announced in the ERIC monthly abstract journal Resources in Education (RIE) and will be available from the ERIC Document Reproduction Service, Computer Microfilm International Corporation, P.O. Box 190, Arlington, Virginia 22210. See RIE for ordering information and ED number.
